The looming fear of sudden cardiac arrest, stroke, or other catastrophic event that ends in death or massive incapacitation lies somewhere in the preconscious, only to be stimulated when another breaking news story reminds us that it could be us.

Dr. Brian Kolender, M.D., an internal medicine and preventive care specialist with more than 20 years of experience, has made it his mission to put a halt to this trajectory by taking an in-depth look at each patient's profile and risk factors at his concierge practice in Birmingham and downtown Detroit, inviting patients to take control of their health from a preventive and analytic stance. Employing cutting-edge markers and tools to identify each patient's risk, Dr. Kolender advises not to make assumptions about your health.

Heart attack and stroke are 100 percent preventable. Take charge of your life and engage with a medical practice where each patient's experience is an extension of time — with the doctor and in life.
